About me: Other to some unfortunate allergies against cats and fruit I am a healthy vegetarian, who likes to do yoga, cycling, hiking and generally spending time in nature. I am a fan of card games (a fair loser, too) and love to discuss topics like pop culture, architecture and music.

● WORK EXPERIENCE

1/11/2018 – 29/2/2020 – Berlin, Germany
BARKEEPER – MIKKELLER CRAFT BEER

I was working as one of the main barkeepers at Mikkeller Berlin for around two years. My duties included opening/closing the shop, and keeping the bar in an overall excellent condition. I would lead night shifts, train new employees and do the artwork for our boards and signs.

On a typical shift I would advise customers from all over the world visiting Mikkeller Berlin. Mikkeller offers a large variety of high end beverages so that I would have in depth talks about brewing processes, ingredients and also explain the basics to find a fitting drink for each customer. Of course changing taps, changing kegs, preparing small snacks and serving long drinks would be included in my duties as well.

After working in hospitality I am even more confident in managing wishes of customers in several languages, performing well under pressure, working quickly and keeping a tidy workspace.

TRAINEE FRONTEND DEVELOPER – 3PC NEUE KOMMUNIKATION GMBH

Working at 3pc is part of my education as a media designer.

In December 2020 I have settled for my current position as a junior developer. Since then I have acquired knowledge in HTML, CSS, working with Git and am currently studying JavaScript.

I am part of a team which consists of developers, designers and project management.

Starting a new project usually involves translating mock ups into our ticket system, breaking down pages into single components, setting up a new work environment, linking the necessary frameworks and start a new developing server.

After the base work is done we create a style guide and start writing the single components.

We work with merge requests in GitLab, where I find the code review especially educational.

In between larger projects and relaunches I do support in live projects. I learned different ways of deployment, using FileZilla and Jenkins.

Other than that I meet daily with my mentor who is supporting my learnings and teaching me the unique workflows of 3pc as well as best practice in semantics and accessibility.

In the process of my education I had the opportunity to get insights in many different departments, including design, copy writing, working in social media and content management.

Next to working at 3pc I visit a professional school once a month for a week. Here I study print and media design.
